LARGE ATTENDANCE AT Y. W. C. A. BAZAAR

Net Proceeds Over $225 --- Four Hundred Tickets Sold

BOOTHS NEARLY SOLD OUT

Program Featured Musical Sketches and Play "The Happy Day"

The Y. W. C. A. Bazaar which was held in the gymnasium last Friday evening proved very successful both in pleasure derived and in financial returns. The affair may be considered doubly successful because of the short time allotted for preparation.

The sale at the booths started promptly at seven o'clock and by the end of the evening the candy, food, and fancy-work tables were completely sold out. The booths were attractively decorated and the girls in attendance were dressed in accordance with the decorative scheme. The colors used for the food table were blue and white, the girls dressed in white. Ice-cream was served in a rose arbor. Candy was sold at a typical Vermont sugar-camp by girls wearing white sweaters. The fancy-work table featured wistaria. Punch was served at a windmill. Bright colored tulips were prevalent here and the punch was served by four Dutch maidens.

The program of entertainment opened with selections by an orchestra of Yama-Yama girls. These were Mary Button, Mary Williams, Barbara Browning, Helen Bolton, Helen Benedict and Janet Taylor.

Next came a duet "Take me Back to Babyland", and dance by Marion Tilden and Margaret Billings, dressed as little girl and boy. Dorothy Douglas and Dorothy Mackay as Pierrette and Pierrot danced and sang "Snap Your Fingers at Care."

A chorus of twelve girls, gowned in light colored organdie, danced to the tune of "The Second Violin" as a final feature before the play "The Happy Day" was presented by an all star cast. This latter production was enthusiastically received and was executed in quite a professional manner, as each player seemed especially adapted to her part.

Helen Bolton as "Sybil Marlowe," the bride, and party to a lover's quarrel on her wedding day, registered fury in a most realistic manner. Margaret Billings, as the mother of the bride, and Barbara Browning as maid of honor were duly unstrung by the events of the day and Anne Littlefield and Ona Ladd as a country cousin and her daughter added the needed touch of comedy. Mary Williams as a society reporter, and Emma Schaefer as a dressmaker were also highly successful in developing a complicated plot. The play was under the direction of Professor William Burrage.

The net returns, over $225, will be devoted towards defraying the expenses of the Y. W. C. A. delegates to Camp Maqua in June.

FLONZALEY QUARTET TO PLAY FRIDAY

Founded in Switzerland Sixteen Years Ago by Mr. de Coffet

FORMED AT VILLA FLONZALEY

Members Are Virtuosi and Players of Exceptional Ability

Middlebury will be privileged to hear, next Friday eveniing, the performance of the most exquisite instrumental ensemble active in the musical world of to-day, namely, the Flonzaley Quartet. Since 1914 when Franz Kneisel, to the sorrow of all music lovers, announce that his inimitable quartet would dibsand forever, (that quartet which had upheld so long the purest and noblest of musical traditions) there has been no organization like the Flonzaleys.

The foundation and growth of the quartet is a fascinating tale. It was on a visit to his summer villa in Switzerland that Mr. E. J. de Coppet, founder of the quartet, met M. Pochon, the present second violinist, and the two conceived the idea of an ensemble which should consist of the best available talent, who should devote their attention exclusively to quartet work. Accordingly a search was made and the artists, who at the present time compose the quartet, were engaged by Mr. de Coppet sixteen years ago. The quartet received its name from Mr. de Coppet's villa "Flonzaley" on the shore of Lake Geneva.

For many years the quartet was supported by its founder and played simply for his edification. But the fame of its interpretation was spreading in musical circles for Marcella Sembrich and Paderewski were frequent visitors to the Villa Flonzaley and it was partly through their insistence that the quartet was allowed to play in public. From that time their success has been enormous, and a richer and more complete maturity is evident in their work as the seasons pass by.

The string quartet form is generally acknowledged to be the highest and purest form of musical art. As M. Betti, the first violinist of the orchestra says, "the quartet form is at once intricate and delicate, perhaps the most exacting of all in its demands." All the greatest instrumental composers of the world have clothed some of their most magnificent conception in the popular chamber music form.

The members of any quartet are in a most delicate position. They must of necessity be virtuosi and performers of the highest rank and yet must be continually self-sacrificing working, of course, in complete sympathy. The personaliities must be artistically blended during the moments of performance. There is a personal and musical intimacy among the members that makes for absolute sympathy in the interpretation of the composers. The Flonzaley quartet prepares only two or three programs, comprising at the most twelve compositions each season, so that the study of each work may be carried to the finer detail of understanding and performance.

On the continent, where musical art has reached a higher development, chamber music is one of the most popular and most beloved forms of pastime and intellectual pleasures of the cultured classes. There are thousands of homes in Continental countries where two to three evenings each week,

MIDDLEBURY TAKES SECOND GAME FROM NORWICH OUTFIT 37-26

New Line-Up Factor in Winning Next to Last Game in State Series

ATTENDANCE NUMBERS 400

Norwich Rally in Final Period Unable to Overcome Lead of Blue Cohorts

Northfield, Vt., Feb. 22—(By wire to The Campus)

An audience of over 400, the largest which has attended any game here this year, saw Middlebury defeat Norwich 37-26 in the return game of the state championship series on the local court to-night. Middlebury took the lead in the scoring early in the game and despite a determined rally on the part of the home team in the final period, held it by a comfortable margin throughout the forty minutes of play.

Coach Brown's shift in the line-up of his charges proved to be one of the factors in deciding the contest. While retaining Captain Heath and Hardy in the forward positions, Timberman and Davis were played the entire game at center and right guard respectively. Kalin, a recruit from the sophomore class five, was seen at a good advantage in the other rear court position and Axtel, who relieved Heath at the beginning of the second half, the latter being removed on fouls, proved a good running mate for Hardy.

The teams did not take the floor until nearly 9 o'clock, being delayed by a preliminary game between the Waterbury Boy Scouts and Northfield High School which went to the latter. In the limited floor area of the local court the Middlebury five was slightly inconvenienced at the start, but this initial disadvantage lessened as the game progressed.

Captain Heath accounted for two floor baskets and shot six from the foul line during the first period. Davis, who did the foul shooting after the former was retired, scored a total of five. Hardy was the high-point scorer of the game, making six floor baskets. The home team had a good scoring combination in Slayton and White who accounted for four floor baskets apiece. Middlebury led at the end of the first half, 18-9.

Norwich made a desperate rally in the second period and nearly doubled her first half's score. Ashton was removed at the end of the first ten minutes of the final period, on fouls.

The summary:

Middlebury (37)	Norwich (26)
Heath (Capt.), rf.	rf., Slayton
Hardy, lf.	lf., Densmore
Timberman, c.	c., White
Davis, rg.	rg., Waite (Capt.)
Kalin, lg.	lg., Ashton

Substitutions: Middlebury—Axtel for Heath; Norwich—Harrington for Densmore, Densmore for Ashton, Maher for Slayton.

Baskets from floor—Hardy (6), Slayton (4), White (4), Heath (2), Timberman (2), Davis, Kalin, Axtel, Waite, Harrington, Densmore.

Baskets from fouls—Heath (6), Davis (5), White (3), Slayton.

Referee—Swaffield (Brown). Timers, Laird (Norwich), Cohen (Middlebury). Scorers—O'Neil, Cohen. Time— Two 20-minute periods.

RETURN GAME WITH U. V. M. SATURDAY

Despite Defeat in Previous Encounter, Comparative Scores of Season Show Even Chances

Still smarting under a defeat at the hands of the U. V. M. team administered about two weeks ago, the Middlebury basketball five will endeavor to turn the tables on the Burlington passers when they will invade the local court Saturday. Coach Brown and Captain Heath are not at all downcast over their chances in the coming contest which will be the fourth game in which Middlebury has engaged in the Vermont State Championship Series.

When the local five went to Burlington they played for the first time without their usual combination, Leonard and Lacy, two star players, having been declared inelligble on the night preceding the game. This loss was quite naturally a serious handicap to the Middlebury teamwork, Leonard's accuracy being sorely missed on the offensive, but despite this the Vermont team was held to a low score until the second half in which she succeeded in amassing a total of 35 points to Middlebury's 21.

Despite this defeat comparative scores, which are at best deceptive, indicate that Middlebury has an even chance in the return game which will be played on the local court. Playing in full strength the Middlebury five smothered Northeastern under by a 53-19 score whereas Vermont, two days later was able only to administer a 29-18 defeat to the same aggregation. In her most recent game that with N. Y. U. Vermont suffered a severe set back, losing 51-8.

Coach Brown has had time to build up a new offensive and defensive without Leonard and Lacy and though their loss was a hard one, will put a strong, well-balanced team on the floor Saturday against the invaders from Burlington.

BRADFORD PRESIDENCY RUMOR NOT CONFIRMED

The state papers have printed a report that the presidency of Middlebury College has been offered to Rev. Dr. Arthur H. Bradford of Providence, R. I., pastor of the Congregational Church in Providence, R. I., who it is understood prefers to remain in the ministry.

A member of the committee of the Trustees who are selecting a successor to President Thomas was called on the telephone and asked about the rumor but said that he had not seen the news item referred to and could offer no information.

PRES. THOMAS TO ADDRESS ANDOVER THEOLOGIANS SOON

"What has America done with Christianity?" will be the subject of two lectures by President John M. Thomas, of Middlebury College, which will be delivered at Andover Theological Seminary, on the Southworth Foundation. On March 7th President Thomas will discuss "The Freedom and Enthusiasm of American Christianity", and on March 8th "American Revivals and their Influence on Christianity".

A Strong Mind and a Sound Body

With respect to the period of governmental control at Middlebury in 1918, the most lasting ill-effect which resulted therefrom is the manner in which the department of physical education was dealt with. Four years ago there existed a well organized system of compulsory exercise for freshmen in addition to advanced courses in coaching offered members of the three upper classes. In the fall of 1918 this form of training was supplanted by that of a more concentrated nature prescribed by Army officials. With the return to a peace basis and the subsequent reorganization of the curriculum, however, the expected reinstatement of the requirements for freshmen was not effected. For three years the men of entering classes have not been required to indulge in any form of physical exercise, moreover, in none of these three years has the single course in physical training, "Physical Education 3-4 M", been open to others than members of the three upper classes.

The value of compulsory physicial training is not to be disputed. Everyone admits that the college man should be well trained physicially as well as mentally. It is the exception among higher educational institutions that does not require at least one year of such work. A voluntary system of training is not enough. There are scores of men in college who have never attempted any form of sport here because of inexperience or a natural hesitancy to compete with others of established reputation athletically. Figures obtained from the Physical Director of the Men's College show that out of 202 men there are but thirty who observe the equivalent of a year's training program which is tantamount to three seasons, thirty-four who train for two seasons, and forty-three who train for one, making a total of 107 actually engaged in some form of physical training ranging in intensity from any one of the four 'Varsity sports to the sporadic exercise which attends an ordinary interest in tennis or handball. Under a compulsory system the inexperienced and timid are not kept away. All are given equal opportunity for development. The difference between compulsory and voluntary training is the difference between training for all and training for the few. Such a system as the former is bound to bring to light any form of athletic ability in an individual and means that the College wil be represented by its best men on any field.

The return to compulsory physicial training for freshmen would mean a vast improvement over the present absence of regulation which enables a man to complete his college course without ever undertaking any specialized form of exercise. Opposed to the immediate adoption of this program is the widespread aversion to afternoon classes which exists among undergraduates. This would be encountered owing to the present almost constant demand for the gymnasium during the proper forenoon periods and further, through the impossibility of training a class of more than forty at one time on the restricted floor space. Both of these contingencies, however, would naturally be met by the creation of one morning and one afternoon class. An added incentive for the College to undertake such steps immediately is seen in the presence of two skilled physical directors among the staff of teachers.

Compulsory training for freshmen is good but there is no reason why a man should terminate his physical training after one year in college. It is this idea which has prompted some colleges to adopt four-year regulation while others have limited the requirements to first-year men and provided other stimulus for further training. Dartmouth, for instance, requires one year of training and awards full college credits for regular training on any one of the several team squads.

The Campus does not contend that either item in the above outlined program is indispensable to a successful policy with regard to physical training. It does believe, however, that when some such plan is put into practice, we shall come nearer to realizing the goal we aim at—a college of well-balanced men and women.

Does This Apply to You?

The college year-book has long been supported by the undergraduate body of Middlebury as an institution worthy of the utmost effort on the part of the students to make its publication a success. It is a mirror in which are reflected the various activities of the year, intellectual, social and athletic. Surely such a book could not fail to be of life-long value to anyone who is or has been in any capacity intimately connected with the college. Its primary function is to serve as a link between graduates and their college days. Each year such memoirs are destined to increase in value to the owner. Therefore neglect to subscribe for the book or to pay the tax pledged not only reflects upon the class for inability to meet expenses, but also reflects on the individual for an indifferent attitude toward a matter which should be regarded as important.

It must be granted that pride in The Kaleidoscope as a class and college publication does not warrant such a deficiency in the number of pledges as exists at present. Statistics concerning unpaid taxes stand as follows:

Seniors, men	8
Seniors, women	8
Juniors, men	17
Juniors, women	13
Sophomores, men	13
Sophomores, women	13
Freshmen, men	15
Freshmen, women	17
Total unpaid taxes	104
Total amount pledged, not paid	$437 00
Received to date about	1100 00
Cost of publication	1900 00

The Kaleidoscope office is open for the payment of pledges every morning from 11:30 to 12:30 and every afternoon from 2:00 to 3:00 o'clock. The Kaleidoscope needs your support. Let your subscription help to make it a financial success.

Saturday evening we shall see if five men can stage a come-back and do in McCullough Gymnasium what eleven men did last fall on Porter Field.

The one phrase which best describes the Y. W. C. A. Bazaar in the gym last Friday would be "unique in the annals of Middlebury College."

When we took our chance in the grab bag and drew forth a whole card of Delta Tau pledge pins we were tempted to petition for a local charter.

"SLEEP DISEASE IS FOUND TO BE COMMUNICABLE" —Headline in N. Y. Tribune

But even this alarming disclosure does not account for the small attendance at Sunday breakfasts.

Be a Cave Man, Duke!

The tendency of the Genus Female to keep the Genus Male waiting while she arrays herself in aesthetic finery before departing to a social function has long been a nation-wide pun. But our Ladies of Pearsons have taken little heed to national sarcasm. We were among those who patiently waited without the aid of nerve-deadening Lady Nicotine and only strengthened by that shallow philosophy, "They also serve who stand and wait." To pitch camp in the hallway with three days' rations would be an impossibility inasmuch as the hard-wood floors are not conducive to a restful peace. We would therefore suggest that the appliance used to harness the departed fire horse be introduced into the famous Hall in order that, at one press of the button a lady may change magically from en negligee to a Lucille creation. Perhaps where others have failed The Periscope may be able to relieve the tension of "We came, we asked for, we waited." "The Duke of Dublin"

NOTICE

We have been pleased to note the increased efforts of the contribs. The other day when some one, in deepest secret, modestly deposited three pages of copy in our office, we were about ready to believe that the world was, afterall, a pretty good place to live in, but then on investigation we found that the material was not new. We must, of course, insist that all favors by the contriband shall be original and we further advise that all contributions should be signed though only the names intended for publication shall be affixed to the printed material.

Ye Ed. Rossiter's tame (?) squirrel bit us last night. The next time we write a "pome" about Mickey it will be an obituary. We never saw such ingratitude.

There have been, as we remember it, two good days of skating on the "new" hockey rink and on one of these days we had to work all afternoon in The Register office in order that The Campus subscribers might be satisfied.

They say that in Honolulu children learn to swim as soon as to walk. And we think that, judging from a present example, the Canadians put on skates before they wear shoes. K. A. B.

President Thomas Speaks on Service

Under the auspices of the Social Service Band President John M. Thomas addressed the women of the college, at an open meeting of that organization held last Wednesday in Pearsons Social Hall on the subject of "Service". Dr. Thomas spoke of the very wide-spread field of opportunity for service to-day and emphasized the high place which service now holds in the world. He expressed an earnest desire that every student in college might ally himself in some movement for greater service.

Thirty couples attended the tea-dance given by members of the women's college last evening in Pearsons Hall. The patrons were Dean and Mrs. L. I. Bonney and Mrs. Kate Mills. Music was furnished by a three-piece orchestra.

GLEE CLUB PLANS TRIP IN MARCH

Weekly Practice Under Leadership of Mr. Alfred Larsen to Begin Next Friday Night

Further organization and activity of the college Glee Club has been noted in the arrangement effected whereby Mr. Alfred Larsen has been secured to direct and drill the club and the announcement of a tentative schedule of engagements including one week trip and several one-night stands.

Beginning with the weekly practice next Friday the club will pass under the directorship of Mr. Larsen who is of state wide reputation in musical lines. Considerable progress has already been made but Mr. Larsen's ability and taste in the choice of music for the club insures not only a comprehensive but also an interesting and thoroughly enjoyable series of entertainments. As a director he is well known to Middlebury through his work in organizing and drilling the College Orchestra.

According to a statement by Manager Frank P. Carrigan '21 arrangements are being made for a trip to begin the week following the termination of the spring recess and to continue the entire week. Among the towns at which it is expected to give concerts on this trip are Morrisville, St. Johnsbury, Wells River, Waterbury, and Barre. The Glee Club will also make one night stands in Vergennes, Whiting and Brandon. However, these plans both for the week trip and the near-by concerts, are as yet merely tentative owing to the confliction of dates in one or two of the towns. It is probable that these dates will be satisfactorily arranged within a few days and a complete schedule will be published when this is accomplished.

TEAMS SELECTED FOR TRIANGULAR DEBATE

Following the trial debates which have been conducted the past week in the Old Chapel the faculty selected the two teams which will participate in the triangular debate to be held with St. Lawrence University and the University of Vermont March 16th. The men chosen are Darby '21, McFee '21, Adams '23, Eddy '23, Austin '24, Klimm '24, Parry '24, and Reilly '24. Should any of these men fail to maintain the necessary standard other men will be substituted in their places. Seventeen men competed for places on the team.

An illustrated lecture was given Wednesday evening in the Hemicycle under the auspices of the Outing Club, at which slides of the winter sports at Dartmouth were shown.

FLONZALEY QUARTET TO PLAY HERE FRIDAY

attorneys and engineers, physicians and architects, business men and clerks gather and are known to spend hour after hour playing through the classics of chamber music. Refreshments and heated debates on the merits and varions conceptions of this or that part of the quartet form the pleasant interludes.

One needs have no great imagination to realize what a wonderful influence such form of entertainment has on the players as well as the family circles and musical neighbors and friends who form their audiences.

It is one of the most cherished ambitions of the Flonzaleys to do their bit in furthering the cult of chamber music in America homes. During their viisit in each American city they gladly give information and their heartiest cooperation to all professional and amateur chamber music organizations and will also consider it a keen pleasure and honor to be called upon as judges giving honors to competing string quartettes formed by progressive supervisors of music from the members of their school orchestras.

There is no form of artistic endeavor which cultivates the soul and spirit of good fellowship and comradery like chamber music. To use Liszt's words: "Where chamber music frequently reechoes in the homes, their men, women and children can form a fair conception of Heaven on Earth"

As Beethoven recognized in the string quartet the most perfect means of expressing his deepest musical thoughts, so in turn, the Flonzaley Quartet has come to be recognized in our day as the most perfect interpreter of the great works of chamber music.

This form of art offers ideal opportunities for the display of the finest qualities of great players, and of such are the four idealists who make up the personnel of the Quartet. When listening to them, one can readily understand the famous phrase of James Gibbon Huneker, the foremost musical critic of America, when he said "They play more like angels than men."

The personnel of the Flonzaley Quartet and the program which they will present is as fallows.

MANAGEMENT LOUDON CHARLTON

MIDDLEBURY AND NORWICH OUT OF U. V. M. CARNIVAL

Owing to lack of snow which has prevented practice and also due to the illness of several members of the team, the Outing Club decided not to compete in the U. V. M. Winter Carnival, which was held yesterday afternoon. For similar reasons, Norwich also did not send a team to Burlington and the sports therefore were confined rather to interclass contests.

Unless additional funds are forthcoming immediately it will be impossible for Middlebury to send a team to Montreal to compete in the annual carnival with McGill, Dartmouth, Vermont, and other colleges on February 25 and 26. President Brigham has hopes, however, that the Outing Club will be able to finance the expense of sending representatives to Canada this week.

PRESIDENT OGILBY SPEAKS AT CHAPEL

The speaker at the Vesper Service Sunday was President R. B. Ogilby of Trinity College. The text was St. John 5:27. "And hath given him authority to execute judgment also, because he is the Son of Man." The Son of Man was defined as the nature of man and Christ called Himself the Son of Man because His life was bound up. The speaker showed how education is experience, and thus in higher education we aim to gather the experiences of the human race and make them our. As Christ represents human experience, the glory of our faith invites us to death.

TO FORM EASTERN COLLEGE SKI ASSN.

Middlebury Asked to Send Delegates to McGill Conference. Plan Greater Interest in Winter Sports

Hanover, N. H. Feb. 22, 1921. Plans for the organization of the Eastern Intercollegiate Ski Association are being formulated here and a tentative constitution has been drawn up calling for a Board of Directors of two men from each of the constituent organizations. The association which is intended to create and develop interest in collegiate ski running and ski jumping, to conduct an annual ski meet, and to standardize the rules governing intercollegiate ski competitions, is open to any duly organized ski or outing club in which there is a genuine interest in ski running and ski jumping.

Invitations have been sent to Middlebury, Vermont, Williams, McGill, and Dartmouth to send representatives to McGill to organize as charter members and plan a program for next year, particularly in reference to the first annual tournament.

PHI BETA KAPPA ELECTS SEVEN TO MEMBERSHIP

Announcement of the annual election of members for initiation to the Middlebury Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at its mid-winter meeting on March 5, shows that out of a total of seven seniors chosen, five are from the Women's College and four are residents of the state of Vermont.

The students who will receive this honor for excellency of scholarship are Leroy R. Bigelow, of Rutland; Arthur T. Harding, of West Boothbay Harbor, Me.; Dorothy D. Bliss. of Cornwall; Esther I. Carlson, of Proctor; Edith M. Cowles, of Derby Line; Florence H. Langley, of Newton Highlands, Mass.; aand Corinne M. Weber, of Hyannis, Mass. Professor Henri Pierre Williamson de Visme, of the class of 1896, will also receive his Phi Beta Kappa key at this time. The orator at the initiation exercises will be Dean L. R. B. Briggs, of Harvard, President of Radcliffe College.

Kenneth M. Gorham and Stanley V. Wright '20, both engaged in business in New York City, returned Saturday to the homes of their parents in Middlebury for a brief visit.

SHELDON FOUNDATION FUND BEING RAISED

A committee composed of former associates of Dr. Samuel Sheldon, educator, author, and engineer, and a graduate of Middlebury in the Class of '83, is now raising money to establish a fund to be called the Sheldon Foundation. The money raised will be presented to the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, to which Dr. Sheldon devoted the greater part of his productive life. It is hoped that the amount subscribed will reach $100,000, which will be a suficient fund to endow a chair in Electrical Engineering bearing his name. Subscriptions should be sent to Charles E. Potts, treasurer, 81 Franklin St., New York.

Dr. Sheldon, during his life held many positions of importance in the engineering world, among them are, president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, vice president of the United Engineering Society, president of the New York Electrical Society, and president of the Department of Electricity of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences. He was professor of Electrical Engineering and Physics at the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn from 1889 to 1920, his death having occurred September 4.

FRATERNITIES AGREE TO LIMIT COST OF DANCES

Representatives Meet to Discuss Plans for Simplified Formal Dances

In response to a growing sentiment in favor of reducing the expenses and preparation incidental to formal fraternity dances, a committee of representatives from the local fraternities called together by President Darby of the Undergraduate Association met last week to consider methods of restricting the dances from the cut-throat competition which has existed in this matter for the past few years. After considerable discussion several rules were formulated and the agreement was effected that each fraternity should endeavor to make its annual dance as inexpensive as possible and that the standard of judging these dances shall be simplicity rather than elaborate preparations as in former years.

The question of decorations provoked the greatest discussion and in view of the natural difficulties encountered in decorating the gymnasium, it was decided impractical to abolish the streamers which usually form the overhead decorations. A rule "nothing that grows" was aimed at the practice of banking the walls with evergreens or ferns which though relatively inexpensive, constitutes the greatest part of the actual labor connected with the dances. Booths and all inclosed benches were also ruled out, and wall decorations are restricted to banners, pennants, pillows, blankets and fraternity skins.

FAST MATCHES FEATURE IN HAND BALL TOURNEY

With two contests of the first round of the hand-ball tournament remaining unplayed, the progress of the schedule has been rather delayed. The match between Keppler and Gallagher has been necessarily postponed by reason of Gallagher's absence from town and similarly the Gollnick-Davis match has not been played because the latter has not been in Middlebury for the past few days. The games thus far have given evidence of some very high class hand-ball, displayed particularly by Elmer and Potratz who won their matches easily. A summary of the scores to date shows the following results: First round, Cohen defeated Hardy, 3-0; Elmer defeated Doolittle, 3-0; Potratz defeated Weeks, 3-0; Whitten defeated Kirchbaum, 3-2; Keppler to play Gallagher; and Davis to play Gollnick. Second round, Potratz defeated Whitten, 3-0.

F. W. CADY ACCEPTS SUMMER PROFESSORSHIP

Professor Frank W. Cady has accepted for the summer an appointment to the faculty of the Summer Session of Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois. He will take the work usually given by Professor A. C. L. Brown, the head of the English Department of the University, who is planning to spend the summer in New England. Professor Cady will give courses in Shakespeare, and either Advanced Composition or Eighteenth Century Poetry. The appointment was made early in January.

Alpha Sigma Phi Dance

The annual formal dance of the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity was held in the McCullough Gymnasium Monday evening. Music was furnished by Fitzpatrick's orchestra of seven pieces The dance started at 4:30 in the afternoon, and at 7:30 the couples went to Battell where dinner was served. The dancing then continued until midnight. The gymnasium was very attractively decorated with red and black, the fraternity colors, streamers being suspended from a large electrically illuminated pin which was placed in the center of the overhead decorations, to the walls. The decorating was in keeping with the plans discussed by the representatives of the fraternities at Middlebury. The patrons were Dr. and Mrs. V. C. Harrington, Professor and Mrs. L. Moreno-Lacalle, Mrs. M. O. Mason, and Mrs. N. B. Law. F. C. Brigham, H. P. Nelson, R. T. Hall, C. J. Haugh, A. B. Way, and F. Jenkins were guests. A. G. Miessie '20, K. E. Preston ex-'22, S. Peck ex-'23, H. E. Murphy ex-'22, W. K. McMurtry '20 were back for the dance.

SUMMER POSITIONS
FOR COLLEGE MEN

Last week we advertised a guaranty of $600 to men who work 75 days, or $480 to men who work 60 days, and we stand squarely behind this offer.

However, we want to make it clear that any guaranty is of little value because if a man fulfills its conditions he will earn more than the amount of the guaranty.

We pay as high a percentage of commission as any other Map Publisher, and in addition we pay a salary of $15 per week and the transportation charges on all goods sold.

For full particulars see
